Mr. Beard holds to the old order of things in many respects, and thinks health is promoted by wearing only a reasonable amount of clothing, bathing in cold water, and being temperate in eating as well as drinking.

On the coldest mornings he delights to wash his face and head in the open with the water freezing to his locks as he returns to the house.

Until thirty-seven, he steadily refused to wear an overcoat; since then he has had but four, two of which he lost, one a horse riding on cold day.

Till this day he thinks his hands would have frozen had he not taken the gloves off and gone bare handed.

Years ago he purchased a pair of gloves for a ride to Leitchfield on a very cold day. Till this day he thinks his hands would have frozen had he not taken the gloves off and gone bare handed.

On the coldest mornings he delights to wash his face and head in the open with the water freezing to his locks as he returns to the house.

PORtUGAL AND FEATURES

AVIATORS OF A. D. 1910

Political Events in United States, England and Mexico Also Cut Important Figure.

By JAMES A. EBDERTON.

WHEN compared to the predecessor 1910 was only one of variety of years. It did not differ in the north pole, it did not have a cluster of centenaries, and it did not bring a world's fair to America. Yet it saw the advent of the Portuguese republic, gave the house of lords a solar plexus blow in England and put the standpatters to sleep in America. These events and others entitle it to our loving regard.

It also had a high in aviation—some things over 10,000 feet, to be exact. It was an industrious year that did not aspire to be a big noise and yet got quite a little done. To put it in classical language, it was not much on drama, but was "a good boomer to work."

Deposing of King Manuel.

In the political world the big event was the deposition of King Manuel out of Portugal and the establishment of a republic. Compared to the magnitude of the event this transformation was accompanied by a little bloodshed. The affair had its share of scandal, but was a quiet performance. It appears that a Parisian dancer of the name of Gaby Deslys took the youthful monarch's eye, with the result that Manuel spent much time in Paris and Gaby sojourned not infrequently in Lisbon. Whether this might not have excited comment, remains quite the usual thing among kings, but inasmuch as Portugal was tired of monarchy anyway the gossip played its part. As a result King Manuel will go down to history as the highest kick or record, having kicked off a king's throne.

The year behind the accession of George V in England, an event that had no influence politically and but little in any other way. Of far greater importance were the two British parliamentary elections, both resulting in Liberal coalition victories by practically the same majorities. The first of these forced through the house of lords the single tax budget, and the second practically sealed the fate of the peers and decreed some form of Irish autonomy. These two elections to my knowledge constitute the most signal triumph for the progressive side witnessed in England since the adoption of the reform bill.

China Also Awakened.

Perhaps the third event in importance in foreign politics was the meeting of the Chinese senate, definitely marking the beginning of parliamentary government in the Celestial Kingdom. The Chinese, however, did not begin the rising tide of democracy. When Ching has a parliament and quits wearing pigtails the millennium will be waiting just around the corner.

Other notable political happenings abroad were the establishment of the hereditary kingdom of Montenegro, the fight to separate church and state in Spain, the Mexican uprising and the swallowing of Korea by Japan. The Land of the Morning Calm is being given such a touch of high life by the Japanese that it is now the Land of the Morning After.

We have also had some politics at home. It is almost brutal to write about the elections of 1910, but it is impossible to give a full blown review of the year without doing so. The Democrats had some victories but generally the result. The progressives practically doubled their representation in both houses and elected governors in California, Kansas, Michigan, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Tennessee, Wisconsin, and Wyoming, although in the last named state the progressive Republican candidate ran on the Democratic ticket.

The Democrats carried the national house by about sixty, made such gains in the senate that the progressives will have the balance of power, and elected governors not only in the southern states, with the exception of Tennessee, but in Montana, Colorado, Idaho, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma and Oregon. This was the first time the Democrats had won such a victory in nearly twenty years.

American Politics Likely.

Political events during the year leading up to the election were the Baldwin investigation, resulting in the exposed corruption of the Senate of Pinchot; the trial of the author of the Taft-Campbell bill, the two chief items being the railroad bill and postal savings bank; the insurgent revolt in Congress, resulting in reviving the speaker of the house; the reorganization of the committee and making it elective by the house; the return of Roosevelt from Africa amid loud accusations and his subsequent disastrous venture into the campaign, the trip of the president to Paris, the practical reorganization of the United States supreme court due to two deaths and one resignation.

The year has been the most notable scientists who say that a comet's head is as enormous as a political platform, while its tail is as thin as the average campaign speech.

A twin performance to Mr. Halley's false alarm was Dr. Cook's confession. Either the flower garlanded doctor was tired of hiding or he needed the money. In any event he has sold this latest of his literary masterpieces. At any rate, he is not now certain whether he reached the north pole, but wants the world to forgive him the purple snows story, the wreath of roses and the good American dollars showered on him during his lecture tour.

Cook Controversy Renewed.

In this connection it is worth of note that Professor Parker returned from his Mount McKinley expedition without having climbed the mountain, but bringing back photographs of such twenty miles away that Cook settled and on which he took his famous pictures of the "top of the world."

Other notable miscellaneous events were the return of the "Lusitania" to the ocean gate to peace, followed by an American war scare the next day; the census which showed that we have nearly 92,000,000 people in the United States proper and over 100,000,000 including the outlying possessions; the peace congresses; the convention congress addressed by Taft and Roosevelt and the labor strikes in Philadelphia and New York.

There were the usual variety of fires, storms, explosions, explosions, wrecks, etc., but the two most important disasters were the flooding of Paris and Tokyo, the two million dollar fire in the "White City" at the Brussels exposition, the in the history of aviation. It witnessed the first flight over the Atlantic, broken military and speed records so often that the fragments are scattered all over two continents. Flights across the English channel have become so common that they call for only a four line item in the newspaper. The record was broken in 1910 and 1911 may be made on the record that the highest flight last year was something like 1,000 feet, while this year the record is 10,408 feet. As for speed, Belanger, a French aeronaut, flew 100 miles at a rate of eighty-six miles an hour.

Aviators' Great Achievements.

Cross country flights between cities have been the feature of 1910. These were led off by Paulhan going from Paris to London in 1909. This year we saw a few from Albany to New York, and Hamilton sped from New York to Philadelphia and returned in one day.

Two NOTABLE EVENTS OF 1910, THREE DEMOCRATS WHOSE GUBERNATORIAL SUCCESSES MAY HAVE NATIONAL EFFECT AND TWO AUTHORS OF WORLDWIDE REENOWN WHO WERE AMONG THE YEAR'S DEAD.

Later Brookins covered the distance from Chicago to Springfield. The ambitious efforts to conduct a race from Chicago to York and from St. Louis to New York were abandoned, although large purse were offered.

Neither did Walter Wellman, dry as the Atlantic in a dirigible. That was another case of too much wind, although Wellman himself blamed it on a storm from Atlantic City in a fog, beat it up the coast to the neighborhood of Nantucket, then got to going south, and after traveling about 50 miles and being aloft seventy-two hours the crew was picked up, rather, picked down, with rather large parades.

Another notable balloon voyage was that of the America II in a flight from St. Louis to northern Quebec, a distance of 1,355 miles, blowing up of the Los Angeles Times and the frightening forest fires in the northwest part of the United States.

The death roll of illustrious men and women is a long one. The most celebrated of the list were Mark Twain of America, Tolstoy of Russia and King Edward VII of England. The most famous, however, was formerly prominent in our public life Thomas C. Platt, David B. Hill and John G. Carlisle were the most noted of the year's dead.

Famous Women Die.

Two famous American women, each about ninety years of age, were claimed in the year. One was Mrs. Anna B. Huntington of New York, and the other was Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy. Other well known Americans who passed away were Louis James, the actor; John La Farge, the artist; O. Henry, the short story writer; Solomon General Bowers and Octave Chanute, the man who invented the Wright brothers in aviation.

Many Sporting Records Upset.

In the world of sports the Philadelphia Athletics won from the Chicago Cubs in the world's championship. Barnes Oldfield broke the world's automobile speed record, going a mile in 27.3 seconds. Two boxing championships were settled. One of these was for the lightweight belt, in which one of the fighters was the famous Jeffries, and the other was the dashing of the hopes of the white race when the mighty Jeffries could not come back.

The advent of Halley's comet was not exactly a sporting event. In this eighty year visitor was anything but a sportsman, and it was hard to live up to its opportunities. If it had been on the job it might have knocked the earth halfway across the solar system and so have prevented the Democratic victory. Yet there are scientists who say that a comet's head is as enormous as a political platform, while its tail is as thin as the average campaign speech.

THE BELTED PLAID.

This Was the Original Dress of the Scottish Highlander.

The original dress of the highlander was the belted plaid. This was a piece of tartan cloth, two yards broad and four yards long, which was drawn around the waist in nicely adjusted folds, tightly enough to hold the man down to the ground. He was then down to the knees in much the same manner as the modern kilt, while the upper part was drawn up and adjusted to the left shoulder, so that the right arm might be perfectly free. This upper part was the plaid, which was tucked under the left shoulder and body in wet weather, and when the use of both arms was required it was fastened across the breast with a brooch, often curiously enriched. A brooch was also used to fasten the plaid on the right shoulder, to prevent the plaid from slipping on the part of the highlander.

Besides Edward VII, two foreign rulers that died were President M. of Chile, who had just finished a visit to this country, and King Chulalongkorn of Siam. The King was a famous field of hunting, and his Gold State of Canada and Dr. Robert Koch of Berlin.

Even with this extended list the natural deaths hardly keep pace with the political fatalities. As a result, however, the list of the fallen is shorter of brand new or freshly elected governors, among the number being Baldwin, Eugene N. Foss, Frederick W. Plaisted, Judson Harmon, Chase S. Osborne, Walter Stoeves and Wm. W. Johnson. Who knows but that some of these may be names to conjure with in coming years?

W. M. Mattingly, of Long Liek, came over Monday to visit his sister, Mrs. Rhodes, near Irvington. Mr. Mattingly is a very enthusiastic sheep man and is taking great interest in sheep since he captured some good premiums at the Breckinridge County Fair last Fall. He says his premium sheep were sold to Louisiana parties through his neighbor, Sidney Owen. Mr. Mattingly bought a fine thoroughbred Southdown buck last fall and he now has thirteen fine ewes from which he is expecting big results in the Spring. Mr. Mattingly is an enterprising, progressive farmer and a good roads man. Says we have the best soil in Kentucky in Breckinridge county and the only thing that keeps us from being the first county in the State is our poor roads. Mr. Mattingly is right. If every farmer would take up the matter of good roads, talk for them and work for them and see to it that our road supervisors do their work right and in the right places and at the right time of year, this county would soon have good roads. People generally get what they want and work for. Wake up farmers on this all important question of good roads.

With the beginning of every New Year there are usually many changes in business circles. The first noticed is that in the firm of Heston, Whitworth & Co., of Hardinsburg, Russell Compton has been made manager to succeed C. C. Brock. Mr. Compton is a brother of Paul Compton, who with Jess Whitworth controls the majority of the company's stock. We are glad to see another Compton boy coming into the business enterprises of the county. He is with a splendid firm which was organized about twelve years ago and one that refuses failure. From observation it can be seen that industrious, patient, steady young men can make good, and the Compton brothers and their business associates are of this class. Let us watch their industry with interest and wish them prosperity.

The State Democratic Committee met in Louisville last week and ordered a primary for the various state offices to be held May 27, 1911. This may be a wise move on the part of the committee, but it is not the wish of the rank and file of the Democrats in this county, who were almost unanimous for an old time Democratic convention. The thing for the Democrats to do now is to see to it that we have a fair primary and a square deal to every candidate and then stand by the nominee and see that he is elected.

John Morelock tells this good story on his old friend Bill Heusley, who was a very enthusiastic worker for the stock law, recently voted on in the Hardinsburg district. John says he was even more eager for the law to carry when he told him it included chickens, but alas and alack, when he cast his vote he voted against it in stead of for it. John says this is the first time in forty years he has gotten one on Bill.

The old boys and girls of Cloverport all come back in the parlour, which is a pretty good sign of their prosperity. They wear good looking clothes and joyous faces, and seem to think, that there is no place better than this old town after all.

Everybody had a great Christmas. We had such a big share of the season's joy that we were ashamed to look Santa Claus in the face. He did so much more for us than we did for others.

We direct attention to the meeting of the tobacco growers to be held at Irvington next Saturday. This is an important meeting for the tobacco men and should be well attended.

Cloverport had a deal of magnetism this Christmas. So many home comers have not been here in years and the day was one of many happy family gatherings.

Nice enough to send presents early, but receiving them a week after time, is like having a Christmas stocking with a hole in it.

A pretty good rule for the new year is to see how much trading we can do with our home merchants during nineteen eleven.

One can't realize how short twelve months are, until time comes to say Hello to the New Year.

OLD TIME GIRDLES.

They Were Indispensable Articles of Wear in the Middle Ages.

In the middle ages at the girdle were hung the thousand and one odds and ends needed and utilized in everyday affairs. The swineherd had his inkhorn and pen attached to the scabbard his boot or girdle. The tailor his scabbard and scissor, the leatherworker his knife, and everybody his knife. So many and so various were the articles attached to it that the flippant began to poke fun. In an old play there is mention of a merchant who had hanging at his girdle a pen and inkhorn and a "handkercher" with many other trinkets besides, of which a merry companion said, "It was like a haberdasher's shop of small wares." In another play a lady says to her maid, "Give me my girdle and see that all the trimmings be at it that plasters, the penknife, the knife to close letters with, the bodkin, the ear picker and the scale be in the case." Girdles were in some respects like the chatelaines of more modern times, but they differed therefrom in being more useful, more comprehensive in regard both to sex and to article. The girdle was a very valuable article which we find girdles bequeathed as precious heirlooms and as valuable presents to keep the giver's memory green after death. They were not infrequently of great intrinsic value.

Fashion Fads.

For the maiden who travels much or who is going on a long visit an embroidered napkin ring of white linen is a timely and serviceable gift. These rings are cut in strips of the required length and are fastened to the napkin by a buttonhole all around.

A sprig of flowers makes a pretty decoration, with the monogram of the owner beneath. A buttonhole loop at the very end folds over and fastens to the tiny pearl button at the other side. Unlike most embroidered pieces, these rings must be stiffly starched when laundered.

day school will be entertained from 2 until 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon to a Reindeer Party at the Presbyterian church.

J. S. Love, representing the National Life and Accident Insurance Company of Nashville, Tenn., was here Tuesday. His headquarters are at Irvington.

Our old friend, Chintz Royalty, was a passenger on the train last Wednesday, enroute to see his family at Louisville.
He is now at the Clay in the Reel Estate business doing well.

Mrs. C. M. Beardley, of Louisville, and brother J. A. Head, teacher in the Irvington College, are spending the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Head at Owensboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter May and children, Elizabeth Wheat and Walter May, Jr., of Detroit, and David May, of Owensboro, are spending the holidays at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. May.

Rev. Farmer, pastor of the Baptist church, was presented Christmas with a handsome watch, given to him by friends of this city. Edward Morrison and Frank Storms were the solicitors for the gift and it was a token of deep friendship for the minister.

PARIS LOSES EXQUISITE.

André Fouquieres to Decorate Court of Knights.

Paris, it is said, is to lose one of its chief ornamens, the modern Beau Gummier of France, the most exquisite of twentieth century dandies, the spoiled arbiter of the Paris drawing room and the country house, is about to leave the scene of his triumphs. Al Adolphe, the Parisian to whom this lame-duck description applies, has succumbed to the blandishments of the mahratta of Kapurthana.

Not long ago the mahratta roared Europe of one of her most beautiful daughters and the modern Beau Gummier, who is a plumed, high-tempered youth, was to call on her to take away one who in inventing excentricities of dress and above all in the management of a coiffure defied competition. The mahratta has said to him, "You have nothing to do with this," he has said to the Beau Gummier, "You have nothing to do with this."

Wanted to know what to do in this particular article of society that has lost all respect for hierarchy and for all dignified and refined for France, and I ask you to come with me to provide over and organize the fete that will be given at the marriage of that daughter.

And the invitation has been accepted.

Wanted to know.

"Have you ever read any of my husband's poetry?"

"I have had that—er, yes, ma'am."

"What do you think of it?"

"Madam, are you looking for a compliment for your husband's verses or for sympathy for yourself?"—Houston Post.

Different Now.

"Before we were married," sighed the fond wife, "I used to call me up and say, 'Come to me, I have a view of you to say, to hear my voice—well,' retorted the rebellious husband, 'nowadays you won't let me get far enough from you to use the long distance!'—London Telegraph.

FONDNESS FOR DRESS UPHELD

A Clergyman Who Has the Temerity to Advise Men to Marry Girls Whose Gowns Are Modeled After the Latest Fashion—Claude Lorraine Mirror.

Dear Elsa—such a funny thing happened while I was marketing this morning. A very attractive looking fish shop has recently located around the corner from us, which I patronized for the first time yesterday. A man who walked in was a foreigner and I was surprised to find that he was a native of my country, and that I had met him before. We talked for a moment, and then I gently said, "It was oysters I asked for."

"Yes, I know," he stammered, "but are you sure they are sold by the quarter?"

He screwed up his face and then very uncertainly picked up a wooden quart measure such as those used for measuring apples and things and threw in a couple of oysters in their shells.
It suddenly dawned on me that he was going to give me a dry quart of oysters in the shells, and just as he was about to place them in the stout portuguese I interrupted the proceedings by saying, "Never mind," and tied predictably that I might have a chance to laugh without offending the poor man.

The Laugh Cure.

This story is one I will tell as my contribution to the half hour laugh cure which we have instituted as a regular thing each evening after dinner.
It is fine for the digestion and all will round go better. We'll talk a trifle about the cure for the laugh cure, for the sake of which I might mention something which will create laughter.

To make the effort worth while and to introduce a sporty element into the game we have an amusement fund, and the one voted to give the most amusing story has the privilege of being the author of the cure for which the amusement fund shall be used.

The story can be either read or told, or a series of funny pictures may furnish the fun, or some one may make a grotesque face and set us all into "fit of giggles." Perhaps this would be the best, for in reality it is part of the plan to relax entirely from dignity and restraint.

About a glowing fire the trio, as Dick calls Dorothy, Margaret and me, were sitting drinking tea on the other afternoon and eating the most delicious new tea party. We were talking about the laugh cure, and I suggested that something which will make us all laugh, but which will not be too excessive.

WHEN BUILDING A GRAVEL ROAD

Use No Stone That Is Larger Than a Walnut.

ALWAYS NEEDS ATTENTION.

From the Very Instant of Completion Either Gravel or Stone Road Begins to Deteriorate, and the Longer It Is Neglected the More It Will Cost to Repair.

Following is an extract from "The Maintenance of Gravel and Broken Stone Roads," written by Daniel N.
Lattin, L'vne University, Lafayette, Ind., in 1892.

"The gravel used should contain no stone larger than a walnut and should not contain more than 40 per cent of fine material, which may consist of sand and clay in about equal

WORN GRAVEL ROAD.
[Courtesy Good Roads, New York.] proportions. At least 20 per cent of fine material must be present for engineering purposes and to help make the gravel impervious to water.

Test.

"If after a hard winter's frost the sides of a gravel pit remain steep without caving it may be taken as a satisfactory test that that gravel is a suitable road metal.

"When a business man invests more in a business project, such as, for instance, in the purchase of houses for renting, he finds it to his interest to keep those houses in good repair.
If the roof begins to leak it must be attended to at once or the interior may be ruined. If furnaces or chimneys are not in good condition they must be repaired before the dwelling is endangered by fire. So it should be with our highways. A good road surface must not only support loads, but it must act as a roof to shield the softer parts of the road from the weather.
A leak in the surface of a road may be as disastrous to the capital invested as a leak in the roof of a dwelling."

Road Deteriorates.

"From the very instant of completion of either a gravel or stone road, that road begins to deteriorate, and the longer it is neglected the more rapid will be the loss, due to lack of maintenance. What such roads need

GRAVEL ROAD WELL CARED FOR.
[Courtesy Good Roads, New York.]

is not a great amount of new material to replace the wear due to traffic, but attention and labor. Fifty cubic yards of gravel or stone will replace material worn from one mile by a year's use."

"The sand or gravel should be applied in small quantities and only when the road is muddy. It should be applied upon the low spots, care being taken to keep the center of the road always crowned and all cracks holes and depressions filled and leveled. Wherever water is allowed to stand upon the road it should be removed and the spots need new sand material and it should be applied before the water dries off. The aim should be to keep the road in such shape that there would be no opportunity for water to stand upon any portion of the road surface. It should have a ready means of escape to the side ditches, and then should escape from ditches before it has time to saturate the foundation."

To Remodel Last Winter's Frock.
In most wardrobes there are frocks the materials of which are up to date, but the style of which is not. The average woman cannot afford to throw away. Here is an idea for bringing such a costume right up to the minute. Granting that you have a chiffon panama dress that needs remodeling, suppose you trim the skirt after the manner of the one illustrated. A band

PRETTY LITTLE AFTERNOON FROCK. of bias satin is arranged at the edge of the skirt and a similar band above the knees. Between these points of valence are narrow bands of the material with which the hem of the skirt is made. The band is sewed on with a small seamstress sewing machine. The small seamstress could accomplish such a revamping in a couple of days, and with little expense a smart costume will result.

GOOD THINGS FOR THE TABLE

The Cooking and Serving of the Winter Apple.

FOR SUNDAY NIGHT SUPPER.

It's Hard to Invent a Novelty For the Cheese Course, but Here's One That Will About Fill the Bill With Little Trouble or Expense.

In many homes apple sauce and apple pie are the only ways of serving this abundant fruit, but there are a number of other styles that will be found quite as appealing. The following recipes are all tried and true.

Stuffed Apple Compote.—Par a dozen fine large apples and carefully re-

A CHEESE COURSE

move the core without breaking the apples. Then fill the cavities with an orange or peach marmalade and put them into an agate or earthenware baking dish with a pound of granulated sugar, half a cupful of water and a dusting of ground cinnamon or grated nutmeg. Let them bake in a moderately hot oven until they are tender.
Serve hot or cold.

Fried Apples.—Juicy rather tart apples are best for this purpose. Pare the apples and cut them in round slices and fry them a nice brown in deep hot fat. Drain them in a heated colander and then place them in a dish, sprinkle with sugar and serve them hot or cold.

Baked Apple Pudding.—Stew enough apples to make a pint of sauce and while the apples are boiling hot stir in a tablespoonful of butter and nut meg, cinnamon and allspice to suit the taste. Then take from the fire and stir in the well beaten yolks of two or three eggs. Beat all very light, then heat in the whites of the eggs basted to a stiff froth. Put into a buttered dish and bake for fifteen minutes in a moderately hot oven. When nicely browned grate more nutmeg over the top and serve with cream and sugar.

Apple Pudding Since—Peel, quarter and core six good cooking apples and put them in a saucepan with a pint of cold water and half a lemon and cook for half an hour. Press the apples through a sieve and add to the saucepan a cupful of brown sugar and a dessert spoonful of apple brandy. Set back on the stove and let the juice boil for five minutes.

Serve with apple pudding.

This salmon recipe is excellent for Sunday night supper:

Hot Canned Salmon.—Set a can of salmon in a saucepan of boiling water over the fire and let the water simmer fifteen or twenty minutes. Open the can, drain the fish, drop it on a platter, then turn the salmon over to the center of a serving dish. Surround with potatoes cut in lengthwise quarters or in hills cooked tender and drained. Garnish with a hard cooked egg cut in quarters. Serve egg sauce in a sauce boat.

Egg Sauce.—Melt two tablespoonsfuls of butter. In it cook two tablespoonsfuls of flour and one-fourth a tablespoonful of salt and add one cupful of cold water and stir until boiling. Draw to a boil, stir in a cupful of cream and serve.

HOT CANNED SALMON.

cover the top of the ramekin and gradually stir in two tablespoonsfuls of butter cut in small pieces. Place with a hard boiled egg above the ramekin.

Here's just the thing for a novel cheese course. Roll cream cheese into hills nearly an inch in diameter and roll the hills in pistachio nuts blended with orange or grapefruit marinade. Surround the marinade with hot toasted crackers. Serve at the close of luncheon or dinner in the place of the usual pudding pie or other sweet. When the crackers are gone, pass the cheese marinade and crackers on a tray in separate receptacles.

To Mend Tablecloth.

To mend a frayed tablecloth baste a piece of sheer muslin or organdy firmly on the wrong side of the cloth, then pin the edges of the cloth to the muslin in their proper position. Then pin that part of the cloth in an embroidery hoop and draw over and under the frayed threads until the firm cloth is in one or two on either side. Use velvet ribbon thread pulled from a piece of new tablecloth. After lau-ding the mended place in the cloth will hardly be noticed.

MAN WILL FREEZE TO DEATH

Dr. Wiley's Theory of Ultimate Extinction of Life.

The earth is slowly cooling and man will freeze to starve, to death, the final fate of the human race, says Dr.
Wiley, chief statistician of the Department of Agriculture, who forsook the subject of germs and pure food long enough to address the Secular League at Washington.

However, he added, there will be food for all in another million years.
"In the future," he said further, "the air will furnish heat, fuel and power, and companies will be formed for uttilizing it. This is not a theory, but an actual condition of the future based upon real conditions and natural laws."

PARAMBULATING THEATER
FRANCE'S LATEST SCHEME.

Will Travel by Automobile and Seat 1,500 Persons.

A perambulating theater fitted with the latest scenic appliances and seating 1,500 persons will take the road in France. As in the days of Molierre, performances will be given wherever there is a favored spot, but instead of the charlots and horses there will be a train of eight automobiles drawing twenty-one cars.

The idea originated with Firmin Ge-rmer, a well known Parisian theater director, and it was developed through the final article report of Deputy Paul Goncourt. The following details of the scheme were announced:

"Local and provincial theaters usually are insufficient for dramatic productions. Moreover, many communities are unable to support a theater and the idea is based on decentralization and the wish to carry culture to the provinces. I intend to give the classics and the best modern plays. When I arrive at a town I shall erect a tent and when we leave we shall have a drop, wings, scenery—everything complete, including a central heating and heating plant. That suits to a new system, the lighting will be as good as the best theaters."

"Special new scenes will be prepared every day. There will be twenty actors directed by myself and I shall employ forty mechanists. We shall sell seats from 20 to 90 cents apiece and will spare no pains to make the productions perfect in every way. We cannot travel fast—perhaps only one or two hours—but we shall at least travel surely. We expect a great success."

The twenty-five roads composing the western trunk line commission have agreed to postpone the effective date of the new law from Jan. 1 to Nov. 1.

The British house of commons has passed the new civil list of King George, amounting to $470,000 a year, exactly the same sum that was allocated to King Edward.

Something New In Kitchen Ware

The "1892" Pure Span Aluminum Ware is rapidly coming into use for cooking purposes. It is taking the place of agate and enamel ware because while its cost is about the same, the wear and tear is really much cheaper in the long run, as it is guaranteed for twenty-five years and will last practically a life time.

The genuine "1892" Ware, made only from pure SPUN (not cast) Aluminum, will not crack, scale, peel, break, scratch or burn.

It looks like silver but weighs only about one-quarter as much, is easily cleaned and handled, and will not rust, corrode or tarnish. Absolutely pure, non-poisonous and wholesomely saves money, time and duster 3 bills.

Be sure you get the original and genuine ware stamped with the Maltese Cross. At your dealers.
